Lack of awareness, misconceptions, stigma & marginalization cause more misery than the condition itself. With medical, social & psychological treatment, public awareness to change the public mind-set is necessary. National Epilepsy Centre (NEC), Karachi, operational since 2012 is the only tertiary care centre in Pakistan exclusively for holistic epilepsy treatment, education, research and public awareness.

Our landmark paper, Epilepsy treatment gap and stigma reduction in Pakistan: A tested public awareness model was published in a reputable medical journal in end Dec 2019. The paper was received with accolades from entire medical especially neurology community for its groundbreaking approach towards reduction of treatment gap in a poorly resourced country. An unprecedented interview of the authors was done by International League Against Epilepsy (ILAE) for its Newsletter Epigraph – highlighting our unique approach of spreading epilepsy awareness nation-wide via customized projects keeping the human resource and finances in mind. The success of this model is that Pakistan is one of the few countries to have showed a substantial reduction in treatment gap (treatment gap is the number of people with an illness, disease, or disorder who need treatment but do not get it and can be used as an outcome measure in health care) and the only country to have achieved this without governmental or international bodies support; technically or financially.
